Chasing Light

A must for all fans of intelligent and stylish song-writing the new album from Gareth Davies-Jones embraces the contemporary and sparkles with New-Folk overtones. Alongside cleverly re-worked traditional ballads, thought-provoking political commentary and gripping historical narrative, you'll also find the essence of Davies-Jones adopted Northumbrian landscape. To add to his own assured performances there is an impressive line-up of guest musicians including talented Folk duo Megson, one of Scotland's finest drummers in Alyn Cosker, superb double-bass from Kevin McGuire and backing vocals from accomplished fellow song-writer Yvonne Lyon. Showcasing a smooth and distinctive voice this is an excellent product from a hard-working and observant artist.

Very beautiful music... I can thoroughly recommend this

Bob Harris, BBC Radio 2

One of the UK's best-kept musical secrets... powerful songs and affecting performances
Properganda

The legacy of well-written, descriptive music laid down by Woody Guthrie, still lives on here in the UK
Maverick (5 Stars)

Intelligent songs which make a point gently and invoke sympathy... someone to be taken seriously
fROOTS

BIOGRAPHY

Professional since 2003, Irish-born singer-songwriter Gareth Davies-Jones has demonstrated an honesty, depth and passion with his beautifully arranged, evocative and challenging songs. Recognised by commentators as an established talent in the Troubadour tradition Gareth is a seasoned performer, activist and campaigner often using his music to promote social justice and working with organisations such as Traidcraft. With regular solo tours in the UK and Ireland his music has been featured on BBC National and Local Radio. Collaborations and support work includes Yvonne Lyon, Calum Stewart, Megson, Waterson Carthy, Spiers & Boden, Steve Tilston, Jez Lowe, Paul Field and Karine Polwart. Originally from County Down, Gareth now lives in the Tyne Valley in Northumberland.
